HIRAM I. HOYT,	}	LIBRARY COMMITTEE.
N. A. LULL,

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD.

To the citizens of Washington:—

In this first year's trial of the town system of school, the members of the "School Board" had no precedents to guide their action and could only act in accordance with their judgment of what was best for the town as a whole. The law requires that all the children in a town shall have as nearly equal school advantages as possible, therefore the school funds were so divided as to give the same number of weeks in all the schools maintained in town.

In school No. 1 there was received from the district fund a sufficient sum to lengthen the fall term two weeks and the parents of the pupils in No. 7, by giving the teacher's board during the spring term added three weeks to the length of the school.

Owing to the situation of the school-houses in this town, little can be done in uniting schools, though many of the schools are too small in numbers to be as profitable as they should be.

In No. 3 there were but four children to attend school at the beginning of the year, and they were assigned to other schools.

In Nos. 2 and 8 one term was kept, and the scholars were allowed to attend other schools the remaining term.

The school room in No. 9 being in need of repairs the Board thought best to expend a part of the five per cent school money allowed for permanent repairs on that building and the room is now comfortable and convenient.

The school-houses in Nos. 3 and 4 need shingling, and the wood sheds in Nos. 1 and 6 must be repaired soon.

The insurance on school-houses Nos. 1 and 5 has run out, and an appropriation by the district will be necessary to re-insure them.

The duty of supervising the schools was divided among the members of the Board, and each member writes the report of the schools under his care. Mr. Emerson attended to Nos. 2, 4 and 9; Dr. Gage to Nos. 5, 8 and 6 during the fall term; and Mr. Hill to Nos. 1, 7 and 6 during the spring term.

SCHOOL NO. 1.

Miss Annie C. Smith, teacher. In this school Miss Smith fully sustained her reputation as a first-rate teacher. The scholars attending the spring term were nearly all small and made excellent progress. The fall term was attended by large and small scholars, making many classes and leaving little time to the teacher for assisting pupils except during recitations. The number of classes could be lessened if all the scholars belonging to the school would attend both terms.

The register of this school shows much irregularity of attendance, an evil that can and should be remedied by the parents.

SCHOOL NO. 2.

MOUNTAIN SCHOOL. One term—spring—taught by Miss May Hersey. Miss Hersey was very thorough in discipline and instruction. Her school made a very good showing at the close. She did good work and kept a good school.

SCHOOL NO. 4.

AT THE BRICK SCHOOL-HOUSE. School of 20 weeks in 2 terms. Miss Jennie Hill, teacher. Miss Hill is a teacher of considerable experience, and is too well known to need any praise from me. She seemed fond of her work and pupils, and assured me that this school was one of her best.

SCHOOL NO. 5.

The school for the year was taught by Miss Agnes L. Barney of East Washington. Miss Barney is so well known as a successful teacher that praise is unnecessary, though not unmerited. So far as we can learn the school was a complete success.

SCHOOL NO. 6.

Miss Carrie M. Gould, teacher for the spring term had prepared herself for teaching at a Normal School, and with the approval of the committee introduced new methods of instruction, and did not confine herself so closely to text books as is sometimes the custom of teachers. While insisting on thorough recitations and a clear understanding of the subjects presented in the text books, she tried to awaken in her pupils an interest in other subjects not less important. The scholars were always prompt to answer in recitations. Excellent order was maintained, and the term was a profitable one.

The fall term was taught by Miss Jennie M. Carr of East Washington. Miss Carr has been long and successfully engaged in the work of instruction. The appearance of the school was excellent, and the progress satisfactory in every respect. Teacher and scholars are to be commended for the extremely tidy condition of the school room.

SCHOOL NO. 7.

Miss Georgianna Russell, teacher. This is a good school and the fact that Miss Russell has taught it three terms in succession, and that during the past year the school has shown constant improvement, proves that Miss Russell was the right teacher in the right place. The scholars were interested in their work, always in order and ready to tell what they had learned. The attendance was excellent, only two of the ten scholars having been absent the first term.

SCHOOL NO. 8.

There was but one school held in this district, taught by Miss Venetta D. Brown of East Washington. Though there were but three scholars in attendance, the school was a profitable one.

SCHOOL NO. 9.

NORTH SCHOOL. Spring term of eight weeks; fall term of twelve weeks. Both terms were taught by Miss Eldora S. Farnsworth of Washington. Miss Farnsworth was assigned this school at the request of the patrons, she having taught here before, I was highly pleased with this teacher and school were the Patrons and pupils. Result: good discipline and great improvement in scholarship.
